

Early Thesis Presentation: Social Engineering: Understanding, Measuring and Protecting Against Attacks

Marcus Nohlberg, Skövde University

This is a presentation of the planned thesis contents and contributions. A focus will be on the research question, the aim and the contributions. The thesis is about an attack against the human element of security called social engineering, where the assailant gets the mark to give out information, or perform actions, that the mark should not give out or do.